FOR SETTING FIRE TO A TENEMENT HOUSE. TWENTY FAMILIES HAVE A NARROW ESCAPE

IN A BLAZING BUILDING. An attempt was made yesterday morning to burn the ree-story double tenement-house No. 222 Johnsonave, and the police now have in custody Solon Crizar, one of the occupants of the building, who will have to answer a charge of arson. Crizar occupies the lower portion of the building with his family, where he carries on a second-hand cabinet and uphotstering Lucas Miller also carries on a tailoring business in what is known as a half store at the side of Crizar's The upper floors are occupied by twenty

At 7:45 o'clock Mrs. Miller, the wife of Lucas Miller, saw smoke issuing from the kitchen of Crizar's apartments. Going into the hallway, she crossed over to Crizar's rooms and opened the door. Mrs. Crizar was there with her young infant in her arms ready to escape. Flames were creeping along the woodwork.

Quickly closing the door, she gave the slarm of fire. Hereries aroused the other inmates of the house, and much consternation among them followed. The people came down the stairway clamoring and graticulating wildly, while they carried out their little children and By this time the building was household effects. By this time the building was rapidly filling with smoke. Mr. Miller ran into the yard and opened the rear window of the Crizars' apart-As he did so the flames burst out and his face

When the firemen reached the scene they found that mattresses and bedding were plied in the middle of the mattresses and bedding were pited in the middle of the kitchen floor and were all in a blaze. While the firemen were extinguishing the flames fire burst out in a closet at the rear of Crizar's store among a quantity of rags, which were found to be saturated with kerosene. The firemen at once directed their attention to this, when suddenly a blaze broke out in the cellar among a lot of rags, which were also found to be saturated with the oil. Crizar was then taken into custody and on his person was found a policy for $500 custody and on his person was found a policy for $500 in the Germahla Fire Insurance Company. Whn it became known that Crizar had been taken into custody on a charge of setting fire to the house the occupants on a charge of setting fire to the house the occupants became greatly excited, and but for the presence of the police to protect him he would have been roughly handled.

OPENING THE REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE. DAVID DUDLEY FIELD'S PROPERTY ON THE BAY BRINGS GOOD PRICES.

The new Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange Building which has been erected in Montague-st., at a cost of $250,000, upon a site costing $150,000, was opened yesterday for the first auction sale of real estate. building is not yet completed, largely owing to labor troubles, but the auction-room, which is nearly fifty feet square, at the Pierrepont-st. end of the building, was temporarily floored over and used for the sale. The building occupies Nos. 189 and 191 Montague-st. and Nos. 148 and 150 Pierrepont-st., and is 50 by 200 The first two stories are of granite and the remaining seven of brick trimmed with brownstone. Banking offices are on either side of the corridor running from the Montague-st. entrance to the ouction-

The first sale was of 416 lots in Bay Ridge owned by David Dudley Field, extending from the Shore Road back to Fourth-ave, along Eighty-seventh, Eightyeighth and Eighty-ninth sts. Jere Johnson, jr., was auctioneer and he called attention to the building as the finest of its kied in the world. Within sixty days, he said, the building would be completed and then there would be a grand opening at which William Ziegler would preside. The sale began with the offering of four lots on the Shore Road, next to Eighty-eighth-st. The bidding began at $1,500 and then ran up to $1,750 lot, at which R. B. Beanmont was the purchaser. Five lots in the rear of these and facing Narrows-ave. were sold to N. Pouison, of the Hecla Iron Works, whose fine property adjoins, for $610 apiece. P. J. The sale was adjourned to May 28, when 150 lots remaining will be sold.

FIGHTING OVER A SARATOGA HOTEL. The suit of Lewis Schmidt, of New-York, for a half interest in property in First Place and a half-interest Victoria Hotel, Saratoga, was tried yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Bartlett. Schmidt says that the defendant, James Finlay, was in tnership with Margaret Kierst as an architect and partnership with Margaret Riess as an abundar and that as partners they owned the property in question. He puchased Mrs. Kierst's interest, but Finlay would not acknowledge his rights. Finlay answers that Mrs. Kierst had no claim on the property answers that Mrs. Kierst had no claim on the property as she had violated the terms of the copartnership. Mrs. Kierst in turn says that Finlay never put also money into the business, but was employed by her, for $15 a week, and when she and her husband. John J. Kierst, were somewhat involved by judgments, they had some of their real estate purchases made in Finlay's name. Though the contract for the Victoria Hotel was made out in his name, they say he paid nothing for it. Justice Bartlett reserved his decision.

NEWARK.

MANY ASSESSMENTS AFFECTED. The decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of the Essex Public Road Board, plaintiff in error, agt. Jacob Skinkle, affirming the judgment of the supreme Court of the State of New-Jersey, with costs which was read by Chief Justice Fuller on Monday, directly affects about $300,000 of a sessments on property in and about Newark. The decision also has far-reaching effects, and it settles a point in law that was never before adjudicated upon by the Federal court.

In 1882 the New-Jersey Legislature enacted a law permitting commissioners to be appointed by the court to readjust assessments by public road boards on appeal by property-owners after such assessments are appeal by property-owners after such assessments are regularly laid and confirmed. The Essex Public Road Board has made extensive improvements on avenues leading out from Newark, and assessed for benefits accordingly. Jacob Skinkle, a large property-owner in Springfield-ave., refused to pay an assessment of $4,400 on his property. Commissioners being appointed, they reduced the assessment in 1884 to 8840. The Road Board contested the constitutionality of the law in the Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals, and both decided against the board. The case was then carried in 1887 on a writ of error by Justice Bradley to the United States Supreme Court.

HE RILLED THE WRONG MAN IN HIS RAGE. The killing of Thomas Wilson at Elizabethport by Herman Blasier was done, the police say, in a fit of blind rage. The dead man had no quarrel with his slayer, who in his rage deliberately shot a man whom Blasier is seventy-one years old, well preserved and of powerful muscular development. He lives with his wife and four children at No. 35 Pine-st., and is a boatman in the employ of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company. Next door to him occupied by the North River Dalla, was of the Carter's yesterday to Brant Good, president of the Carter's Little Liver Pills Company. The price brought was keeps a liquor shop. The two families have been at loggerheads for some time.

On Monday night there was a wrangle between the female portions of the two families, and Mrs. Blasier informed her husband that Lizzie Hendry, Fullerion's stepdaughter, thirty years old, had beaten Angeline Fullerton, nine years old. This news aroused Blasier's wrath. He rushed out of the house, and seeing Mrs. Hendry on the stoop struck her a savage blow on the face, knocking her down. Fullerton, hearing her shricks, seized a baseball bat, while his son grasped a club, and both sallied forth to her assist-

Blasler retreated to the street, and, picking up two big stones, prepared to give them battle. Fullerto pushed his daughter into the liquor shop and re-entered 't himself. Just at this moment Thomas Wilson entered Fullerton's place. He had heard the disturbthimself. Just at this moment Thomas Wilson entered Fullerton's place. He had heard the disturbance, and walked down a block to see what it was all about. Bleanwhile Blasier had started for his boat, which hay about 800 feet distant, and got his revolver out of the cabin. Armed with this, he went back to the liquor shop and burst open the door. Fullecton dedged behind a post, but Wilson, who was unconscious of danger, started to walk across the floor to a table, at which were sitting John Gefer and Thomas Clark, two boatmen, who also work for the Lehigh Company. Blasier, standing in the doctway, pointed the revolver at Wilson and fred, the bullet striking him on the left breast in the region of the heart. Wilson creed, "My God, I'm shot," and, walking to the back door of the place, sank down on the docrstep. He called feebly for water, and young Fullerton and Clark van to his assistance. He expired in their arms within ten minutes after being shot.

Blaster turned his pistol on Mrs. Hendry, who tried to shut the door on him, and fixed two more shots at her, one lodging in the ranel of the door and the other burying itself in the walascoting of the saloon. He then retired to his house, where he was arrested a few moments later by Police Capitain Long and Sergeant Walsh. Blaster did not deny the shooting or show any remorse for haying killed the wrong man. The Inquest will begin at the morgue this evening at 8 o'clock, Wilson had only recently removed to Elizabethpori from Brooklyn, where he lived for several years. He leaves a wife and four children.

MOUNT VERNON.—A special meeting of the Baptist Church Society was called on Monday night to act upon the resignation of the Rev. C. H. Dodd, the pastor. The resignation was a surprise and disappointment to the church. D. C. Curtis, who presided, said that he had known for a long time that the minister wished to resign, and that he had labored to have him change his purpose, but to no avail. The vote, after a long discussion, was manimous against accepting the resignation, and asking the appointment of a committee of nine to wait upon the minister and endeavor to influence him to withdraw his resignation. There is not the slightest discension between the members and myself. Mr. Dodd said yesterday, "except that perhaps two or three may not feel satisfied with my presening; but that is not an unusual thing in any church. The fact is that I have for a long time contemplated this step, and should have resigned at the end of my first year in April but I was just finishing the work of a successful revival, and although physically and mentally exhausted. I felt that I must continue. My resignation is to take effect on September I, and as I do not intend to take effect on September I, and as I do not intend to take affect on September I, and as I do not freed at liberty to say just now what my plans are, but I cannot withdraw my resignation." It is understood that Mr. Dodd is going to Europe to take a spost-graduate course in theology, after which he will accept a professorship in a college that has been offered to him or may become an evangelist.

YALE MINSTRELSY AT PELHAM MANOR. The Yale glee and banjo clubs gave a delightful con cert last evening In the Manor Club-house at Pelham Manor: and at the close of the entertainment a recep-Cunningham Hazen, who had been instrumental in bringing the Elm City visitors thither. The club-house and the Hazen residence and grounds were elabo rately and daintily decorated, and numerous outof-town guests shared in both the musical and social pleasures of the occasion. Of the latter, dancing until a late hour was a feature. The glee and banjo clubs give these musical performances in many places in the course of a year; but very seldom, they say, is any personal hospitality like this extended to them. For the convenience of a number of people returning to this city, arrangements were made for the Washington express of the New-England road, with an extra car, to stop at Pelham Manor at 1:50 o'clock this morning.

THE REV. DR. VIRGIN'S SALARY INCREASED. The annual meeting of the Society of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, at One-hundred-and-Twenty-first-st. and Madison-ave., was held last night. Josiah Lombard was re-elected chairman, and Reuben Small secretary, each for a fourth term. George L. Van Emberg and Thomas H. Newman were re-elected as trustess. The other trustees are John J. Braden, J. M. Horton, John J. Nestel and Marshall Ayres. The present treasurer, Mr. Braden, will probably be re-elected at a subsequent meeting of the trustees. The treasurer's report, made last night, showed the society to be in a prosperous condition. The interest on the mortgage of $50,000 on the church property has been the coming year include $7,000 for the salary of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Virgin, which was reised to that amount when Dr. Virgin declined a call to a Boston church The choir of the church is being reorganized. Ritter, formerly of Holy Trinity Church, as tenor, would be engaged within a few weeks.

It was expected that there would be some discussion move to the western side of the city. The matter did not come up, however, and one of the trustees said that there was no present prospect of any change. On Sunday next the church will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of its foundation.

While Bistening to the complaints of some literary and journalistic persons at the club the other night, I was struck by an idea, not new or brilliant, but some struck by an idea, not new or brilliant, but practical and business like. What a grand thing it would be to publish a newspaper or a magnine with all the articles intact, before the cautious editor had done his deadly work upon them. My young friends declare that most of their reality clever, iresh and original remarks are cut out as being dangerous or objectionable; and that the public is defrauded of their rightful cutertainment and the authors shine with sadly diminished listre. If I remember aright, that successful little sheet, "The Harvard Lampoon," began in just this way. A skit was offered to one of the stald college weeklies there existing, and refused as being too irreverent toward the authorities. Whereupon the writer declared that he would puplish it in a paper of his own, which he did the following week; and, the experiment succeeding it was repeated. Thus "The Lampoon" grew up as naturally as a flower.

THE GOLD MOVEMENT UNCHECKED. Two lots of gold coin-one of $590,000 and the ther of $500,000-were delivered by the Sub-Treasury vesterday to bankers who intend to ship the money to There also was $1,000,000 engaged for de livery this morning. This makes, with the $500,000 placed on the steamer Havel on Monday, a total of $2,590,000 in gold engaged for shipment since Sunday. Rumors of larger engagements were plentiful in Wall Street, and the leading bankers expect that there will be further shipments this week in spite of the weaker tone in the market for foreign exchange.

THE TICKET BROKER HIDDEN IN A COAL-YARD. Peter McDonald, ticket broker of No. 11 Broadway, was a prisoner at the Tombs Court yesterday merning charged with larceny. On April 8 Abraham Corn, of No. 85 Division-st., purchased of McDonald a tleket to Europe. After purchasing the ticket Corn had $518 left, which he desired to exchange for marks or francs. At McDonald's suggestion he bought a draft on a Berlin banking house and went home. Corn consulted some friends, who advised him to give up his trip to Europe until later in the season. The following day Corn called at McDonald's office and asked him if he had forwarded the money to Berlin. The broker said he had not, Corn told him he desired to remain in America, and was willing to pay whatever charges there were. The broker bought back the ticket at a reduction and asked Corn to wait five days for his $518. Five days passed, and McDonald agreed then to return the money in twenty-eight days, which expired yesterday. Corn communicated with Inspector Byrnes and yesterday Detectives Heidelberg and Doian visited the broker's office and found it securely locked. Later in the day McDonald was found hidden in a coal yard in Washington-st. Peter McDonald, ticket broker of No. 11 Broadway, a coal yard in Washington-st.

The prisoner was held in $1,500 bail for trial.
